

Evander is the program director at Florin High School in South Sacramento. He is a graduate of California State University Sacramento, where he received a BA in psychology. While attending CSUS he was also a fulltime athlete, playing for the football team for 5 years. After graduation, Evander worked with kids with autism and related disorders for two years as a behavioral therapist. He had his first contact with IYT in 2015 where he volunteered for the program. His passion for the youth drove him to go into the juvenile probation field as a probation aide. It was there that Evander began to truly understand on a first-hand basis the devastating impact of educational inequity and its impact on young men of color. His experiences in the juvenile probation field accompanied with the opportunity to impact the same demographic in a proactive way through education brought him to Improve Your Tomorrow Inc.
